

DR. ENRICO BONADIO, City University of London, UK

Enrico Bonadio is Senior Lecturer in Law at City, University of London (City Law School), where he teaches various modules on intellectual property (IP) law.

He regularly lectures, publishes and advises in the field of intellectual property law. He published a book on TRIPS Agreement and genetic resources (Jovene 2008) and several articles in leading international peer-reviewed journals. He received the ECTA Award for the Best Paper in Trademark Law in 2013 (plain packaging of tobacco products under European intellectual property law). Enrico has recently co-edited two books entitled "Beyond Plain Packaging - The New Intellectual Property of Health" (Elgar, 2016, with Alberto Alemanno) and "Non-Conventional Copyright - Do New and Non-Traditional Works Deserve Protection?" (Elgar 2018, with Nicola Lucchi). He has also done academic work on digital copyright and free speech, exhaustion of IP rights and parallel imports, patentability of human embryonic stem cells and patents and food safety. His current research agenda focuses on copyright protection of visual arts, and he is currently co-editing a book entitled "Copyright in Street Art and Graffiti – A Country-by-Country Legal Analysis" (Cambridge University Press, forthcoming 2019).

Enrico is Visiting Professor in IP Law at Université Catholique de Lyon (France) and University of Turku (Finland) as well as visiting lecturer at the two LL.Ms in Intellectual Property offered by WIPO (in Turin, Italy and Ankara, Turkey). He has also been a Visiting Scholar at Melbourne Law School (University of Melbourne, 2013) and City University New York (CUNY Law School, 2016). Enrico is a Solicitor qualified to practise in England and Wales as well as in Italy. He practised as IP attorney for several years in top-tier international law firms and frequently appears in the media as an IP expert.

He is member of ATRIP (International Association for the Advancement of Teaching and Research in Intellectual Property) and The Law Society of England and Wales.
