

INGA GEORGE, Attorney-at-law, Partner, boesling IP Rechtsanwälte GbR, DE

Inga George is an IP lawyer and partner of boesling IP, an intellectual property litigation boutique based in Hamburg, Germany. Before joining boesling IP in 2016, she worked many years in one of Germany's leading IP practices.

Inga has extensive experience in litigating IP and unfair competition cases before the German and EU courts. Her work covers all aspects of trademark, design, copyright and unfair competition law, in particular enforcing intellectual property rights in national and cross-border proceedings, developing and implementing worldwide trademark and design protection strategies, oppositions and cancellation proceedings, as well as drafting and negotiating IP licensing and transfer agreements.

Inga is the co-author of a commentary on the Community Design Regulation (Hasselblatt (ed.), C.H. Beck Hart Nomos, 2015) and the author of numerous articles and case notes on current IP issues in German periodicals.
